The Australian Sports Commission (ASC) believes that the responsibility for the ethical conduct in sports in Australia rests equally with officials, coaches, players, administrators, spectators, media, educators, parents, governments, sponsors and team owners.

The duty of the sports official is to act as an impartial judge of sporting competition and this duty carries with it an obligation for the official to perform with accuracy, consistency, objectivity and the highest sense of integrity.

The ASC recognises that to preserve and encourage confidence in the professionalism and integrity of officiating, officials must first foster ethical behaviour.
